Okanogan County incidence rate is trending down, but please stay vigilant

Over the past 14 days, Okanogan County has experienced 98 new cases of COVID-19, bringing the incidence rate (# of cases/100,000/14 days) to 229.3.

On Aug. 21, the incidence rate in Okanogan County was 259.8. On Aug. 14, the incidence rate for the county was 395.5 and on Aug. 6, the incidence rate for the county was 662.3.

While this number has trended down, the risk of contracting COVID-19 remains very real in Okanogan County and on and around the Colville Indian Reservation.

Continue to take simple steps to protect yourself and your family.

Earlier this week, Colville Tribal Health and Human Services Director Dan Barbara wrote in an update:

“Social distancing, wearing masks, and following the emergency orders are together working to protect the community and help stop the spread of COVID-19, but because this virus is so easily spread through respiratory (breath) droplets, wearing masks to prevent spreading the virus to other people and maintaining social distance is still very important. We scientists and public health folks now know more than we did earlier this year about COVID-19 and how it is spread, and all of that evidence points to how well the simple precautions I’ve mentioned work.”
