There are three phases to this project: Design, Project Management, and Construction. Due to the time frame to complete each phase of this project, contracting for this work will most likely span over two years. Details on the Design and Project Management phases of work requested in this RFP are described below.

Design

The Colville Tribes requests the design of a stand-alone rearing building capable of producing up to 6,000 age-1 White Sturgeon from the larvae stage to a maximum size of 350 grams each. All fish will be scute marked and affixed with a passive integrated transponder tag prior to release and additional holding capacity to complete this task should be considered. The rearing building will be located within the Hatchery footprint and connections to convey and discharge water will be made from existing piping. Firm to assume that water resources are available at the location, water chemistry is conducive to rear fish, and the annual water temperature range is from 8.4-15°C (47-59°F). The following White Sturgeon bio-criteria should be considered in developing design: maximum rearing per vessel is 35kg/m³ and optimum water temperature for growth needs to be a constant 15.5°C (60°F); however, the ability to adjust water temperatures to affect growth (slow or increase) should be included. Design should consider operational flexibility and expansion potential, while including any infrastructure necessary to rear fish in a healthy, safe and efficient environment to meet the stocking size goal. White Sturgeon larvae will be received in mid-July and juveniles should meet the target size of 350 grams each within a year.

The selected Firm shall generate a final design which shall show the following:

- a) Organization and layout of building to include: size and design of building, exterior character, heating/cooling system, interior and exterior LED lighting, outlets, and hose bib.
- b) Piping: type, connection locations, and valves that convey water to rearing vessels and connection to existing discharge.
- c) Electrical requirements and back-up power generation needs. Firm to verify if existing Hatchery generator can accommodate electrical requirements of rearing building and equipment or if a secondary generator is required as a back-up power source.
- d) Monitor controls (i.e. water temperature) through a scada system that is connected or communicates to the adjacent hatchery's centralized monitoring system and alarm auto dialer. Although the facility will be designed as a stand-alone site, operations will be monitored 24 hours/day by the adjacent hatchery staffs.
- e) Equipment: water heating system(s), temperature gauge(s) with monitor control, mountable automatic feeding stations (24hr belt feeders) and water flow meters (FLOMEC) installed.
- f) Design to consider future modifications such as reuse technology or expansion.

Site Conditions: The selected Firm will perform a general site analysis and document conditions that might influence the design.

Project Meetings: The selected Firm shall meet not less than four (4) times during the Design Phase.

- g) The first meeting shall include a site visit, review of bio-criteria and design objectives, schedule and discuss any other contractual matters.
- h) The second meeting shall be for the purpose of reviewing the initial design (30%) for the proposed project. This meeting will most likely will be in the form of a web meeting.
- i) The third meeting, web based/conference call, shall be for the purpose of reviewing design at 70%.
- j) The fourth meeting shall be for the purpose of reviewing the final design for the project and an Engineers Estimate prepared on a bid schedule identifying construction and materials costs.

The following design specifications are to be upheld:

- 1. All engineering design shall be performed or closely monitored by a professional engineer licensed by the State of Washington.
- 2. All engineering designs, plans and specifications shall be sealed by a professional engineer licensed in the State of Washington.

Any proposal that does not contain each element described in this RFP, fully completed, initialed or executed, as appropriate, may be judged to be incomplete and may not be considered further.

4.02 Scoring and Evaluation Factors

The evaluation factors reflect a wide range of considerations. While cost is important, other factors are also significant. The objective is to choose the entity capable of providing reliable and effective services within a reasonable budget.

The Colville Tribes reserves the right to make an award without further discussion of the proposals submitted. Therefore, proposals should be initially submitted on the most favorable terms the Firm can offer. This should not be interpreted to prohibit either party from proposing additional contract terms and conditions during negotiations of the final document.

The RFP document and the successful Firm's/Offeror's proposal response, as amended by agreement between the Tribes and the Firm/Offeror, including e-mail or written correspondence relative to the RFP, may become part of the Contract between the Colville Tribes and the successful Firm/Offeror.

Additionally, the Colville Tribes may verify the Firm's/Offeror's representations appearing in the proposal. Failure of the Firm/Offeror to perform as represented may result in elimination of the Firm/Offeror from competition or in Contract cancellation or termination.

The apparent successful Firm/Offeror will be expected to enter into a contract with the Colville Tribes. If a contract is not entered into with a reasonable time after selecting the proposal, the Colville Tribes may elect to cancel the award or award the Contract to the next highest ranked Offeror. The Colville Tribes shall not be bound or in any way obligated until both parties have executed a contract. No party may incur any chargeable costs prior to the execution of a final contract.

After opening and ranking, an award may be made on the basis of the proposals initially submitted, without discussion, clarification or modification, or, the Tribes may discuss with the selected Firm offers for cost reduction and other elements of the Firm's proposal. If the Colville Tribes determine that it is unable to reach a contract satisfactory to the Tribes with the selected Firm, then the Tribes will terminate discussions with the selected Firm and proceed to the next Firm in order of selection ranking until a contract is reached or the Tribe has rejected all proposals. The Tribes will not disclose any information derived from the proposals submitted from competing offers in conducting such discussions.

The Tribes reserves the right to award a contract for all or any portion of the requirements proposed by reason of this request, award multiple Contracts, or to reject any and all proposals if deemed to be in the best interests of the Tribes and to re-solicit for proposals, or to reject any and all proposals if deemed to be in the best interests of the Tribes and to temporarily or permanently abandon the procurement.
